

János Németh MD, PhD, DSc, FEBO, FICO Myopia Guidelines - SOE Webinar

I am full time professor and scientific vice director in the Department of Ophthalmology at Semmelweis University, Budapest, Hungary and earlier I was medical and financial director for 10 years. I defended my PhD thesis on Early diagnosis of glaucoma in 1991 and DSc thesis on Blood circulation of the eye and orbit in 2003. I have 40 year-long teaching experiences in university education and extensive leadership experience in clinical research: national and international medical, scientific, epidemiological and preventive projects and programs; leader of interdisciplinary and international co-operations. I am reviewing articles, scientific works and project plans, participating in the evaluation of large research proposals in 6th, 7th and Horizon 2020 EU Framework Programs. I am author of 381 scientific articles (25 in D1 and 41 in Q1 journals, IF: 270.967, Hirsch-index: 24). I am author/editor of 10 books and 40 book chapters. I hold 819 scientific lectures. I am Board Member of the European Society of Ophthalmology (SOE, since 2013), Member of the European Academy of Ophthalmology (EAO, 5th Seat, since 2007), Foundation Board Member of the South-East European Ophthalmological Society (SEEOS, since 2003). I was Board Member of the International Council of Ophthalmology (ICO, from 2010 to 2018), Member of the Global Outreach Committee of the American Academy of Ophthalmology (AAO, 2008-2014), Member in the International Chapter Affiliate Council of ARVO (2007-2017), Chair of the International Member Committee of the ARVO (2009-2013), and European Regional Chair of the International Agency for the Prevention of Blindness (IAPB, 2012-2021).